November 5, 1922. Continuing on the above matter, Operative located at the Railroad Station in New Brunswick, N.J., at 8 a.m.

While in conversation with Garry Kenny a young man came into the station wearing a dark suit and light cap. Garry said to Operative, "Do you know young Hayes?" and upon Operative answering in the negative, Garry said, "Well, there he is, I will give you an introduction to him." In a short time young Hayes came over to the newstand and Garry introduced him to Operative. Operative, Garry Kenny and young Hayes had a short conversation and then young Hayes left and boarded an Easton Avenue Car.

Operative observed Mr. Kirby in and about the station, and was informed by Garry that Kirby was watching the trains. Garry Kenny told Operative that he understood there was something doing. After awhile Operative left the station and proceeded about town.

At about 2 p.m. Operative proceeded out on Easton Avenue to the vicinity of Phillips Farm, and upon arrival there noticed a large crowd about the place. Upon joining the crowd, Operative observed several reporters and several officials, among them Mr. Kirby, very busily talking. There was also a fellow amongst them selling pictures of the scene of the murder for 50¢ a piece.

The concensus of opinion amongst the crowd about the Phillips' Farm was that Mrs. Gibson was a d--- liar, and that she was trying to get a price for a mule.

After awhile Operative left the vicinity of the Phillips' Farm and proceeded down Easton Avenue. After walking a short distance, Operative met Mr. Bradley, and entered in conversation with him.

Mr. Bradley advised Operative that they were going to arrest Carpender sometime during the week. Operative asked Mr. Bradley who Carpender was, and
